

*hypnotic...haunting...
[with] the astringent
purity of a haiku poem*

—THE GUARDIAN

THE LLANARTH GROUP'S

Told by the Wind

May 20 & 21, 2011 * 8:00 p.m.

Presented in Association with Columbia College
Chicago's Theatre Department

the dance center

Columbia
COLLEGE CHICAGO

THE LLANARTH GROUP'S Told by the Wind

May 20 & 21, 2011 * 8:00 p.m.

"easily the most hypnotic piece of theatre I have experienced... extraordinary poise and perfection in the movement, texting and staging"

—BRITISH THEATRE GUIDE

Two figures, two lives, multiple time spaces: Told by the Wind is a fusion of movement and text that 'dances' an inner landscape. Stripped of the traditional elements associated with theatre, the stories are evoked and told by embodied silences, splintered interactions, and slowed down motion. Transformative and multi-layered, Told by the Wind is the co-creation of an award-winning team of Wales-based theatre/performance artists including playwright Kaite O'Reilly, choreographer Jo Shaplan and director/performer Phillip Zarrilli. Informed by Japanese theatre of quietude and string theory, Told by the Wind is intimate and meditative—a requiem for the unseen—a poignant duet for two figures who never physically meet.

OTHER EVENTS

Post-Performance Conversation with Philip Zarilli

Friday, May 20, 2011
Free and open to ticket holders

TICKETS

$20 Regular (Senior, Student and Group Discounts are available)

MORE INFO

Call 312.369.8330
or visit colum.edu/
dancecenter

This co-presentation marks the launch of the Columbia International Theater Experience (CITE), a new initiative that links Columbia's Theatre Department with the work of international artists and theater companies, in an exploration of contemporary theater practices worldwide.

Front: Told by the Wind, The Llanarth Group by Ace McCarron

thedancecenter

1306 S. MICHIGAN AVE., CHICAGO, IL 60605

create... change

Columbia COLLEGE CHICAGO